MARAUDERS.

After Murdering a Policeman They Board s Freight, But Are Overtaken-One of Them Killed and the Other Wounded-Only a Small Amount of Plunder Secured-All the Express Crew Relieved

LAMAR, Mo., Jan. 23 .- Two very bold men robbed the express car of the Missouri Pacific train, which reached here at 12:30 a. m. The men held up the occupants of the car, keeping them covered with revolvers while he train traveled the ten miles between Sheldon and Lamar. The two men, of whom only the most meagre descriptions are ob-tainable, boarded the train at Sheldon. In the baggage and express car were Express Messenger Hauck, Baggagemaster Hall and Traveling Passenger Agent Charles Barrett oockets rifled. From Hall $75 was taken, from he others small sums of money and some tewelry. Honck was forced to give the con ation of his safe and this also was robbed. The amount taken from the safe was small,

Since last night the relatives of the dead and injured, and also of those who escaped unburt, have been arriving by the score, and to-day there are many bleeding hearts around the morgue and at the several hospitals where the injured are being cared for. The work of removing the dead and injured to their homes has begun, and by to-morrow many of the scenes of sorrow will be transferred to the homes of the unfortunates scattered all over the United States. The uninjured, too, are departing for their homes and it looks like there will be a general exodus of the patients of the institute.

A Palace in Ashes-Sixteenth Century Tragedy Recalled.

BRUSSELS, Jan. 23 .- A portion of the rest was discovered to be on fire at 2 o'clock this morning. The origin of the fire is unknown, but it started in the bedroom of Princess Ludmille of Croy Dulmen, a sister of the Duke who is the wife of the hereditary Prince of Croy Dulmen. The Princess and her young children Prince Charles and Princess Isabel, barely escaped with their lives.

The palace occupied by the Duke of Arenberg was a very old one and many historical associations clung about it. In it was the room known as Count Egmont's cabinet, which for $25 years has remained exactly as it was left by that unfortunate Prince at the time of his arrest in 153. This room, together with its valuable contents, was completely destroyed, The Pavilion Egmont was also destroyed, with all its valuable treasures, with the exception of some very rare Gobelin tapestries which adorned the wails. These were hastly, though carefully, taken down and saved. All the works of art in the wing occupied by the Prince of Croy Dulmen and his family were lost. The palace was filled with famous historical paintings and other works of art, but, with the exception of those parts of the structure above mentioned, no damage was done.

THE DUCHESS OF PIFE A POSSIBLE FUTURE QUEEN.

Still Mourning for the Dead Duke-Socie Functions Interfered With-Canada and the Mother Country Coming to Better Understanding-Exciting Elec tion for the Hartington Vacancy

LONDON, Jan. 23 .- The fear that the Duches of Fife may, through a concatenation of events, succeed to the throne continues to of the nobility and upper classes.

A well informed correspondent says that Prince George of Wales, who through his brother's death, becomes heir presumptive to the throne, will almost immediately be made Duke of Sussex, and that his engage ment to some Princess will be announced be fore the end of the season. It is earnestly hoped that the very greatest precautions will be taken with regard to the ealth of Prince George, for, it is said, he is not gifted with a stronger constitution than that possessed by his brother. It was generally understood that when Princess Louise married the Earl of Fife, who en afterward created a Duke, she reounced her rights of succession, but it is now Duchess of Fife becoming Queen the Duke of Fife would, of course, be made Prince Consort, and the idea of his holding that most exalted position is not at all acceptable to the nation. Such a succession might have unfortunate results. with the death of the Duke of Clarence and Avondale is the demonstrations that are still made. The Albert Memorial Chapel was opened to the public to-day and hundreds of people went from London to Windsor for the purpose of looking at the coffin containing the remains of the Duke. Not alone from the remains of the Duke. Not alone from London, but from many parts of the country people flocked to Windsor and every train which stopped at the station added its quotato the crowd. The streets were early filled with throngs of men and women moving in the Girection of the castle. All morning there was a stream of humanity pouring into the chapel, eager to look upon the coffin. They were kept moving along steadily.

the chapel, eager to look upon the coffin. They were kept moving along steadily.

The death of the Duke has had a very great effect upon many branches of trade. The prospects of "the season," however, will not be seriously interfered with. The Queen, having reconsidered her determination not to hold the usual "drawing rooms" in May, those functions will take place as usual.

The Queen has heretofore been assisted at the "drawing rooms" by the Princess of Wales, whose place will now be taken by the Duchess of Albany, widow of Prince Leopold, fourth son of the Queen, who died in 1884. Although the mambers of the royal family will take no part whatever in private entertainments, the various dances, teas, etc., of society will continue much as usual.

AIDING CANADA.

EFFORTS MADE TO PROMOTE BETTER RELATIONS WITH THE DOMINION. LONDON, Jan. 23 .- The Empire Trade League holding a series of meetings in the large towns to bring pressure to bear upon Parlia-ment to rescind the treaties which prevent preferential trade between Great Britain and her colonies. Speaking at Birmingham last night, Howard Vincent said he found Canadians anxious to throw off their foreign shackles and give better terms to their fellow-Britons if the mother country would give Canada better terms.

Yesterday's influential deputation to the Canadian Government Office in London, which canadian Government Omce in London, which was received by Mr. Colmer, secretary in Sif Charles Tupper's absence, owing to influenza, is again drawing attention to Canada's fast mail service. It seems evident, however, that Canada must defer all hopes for the completion of this scheme until an imperial subsidy has been obtained. The British government has already been form. Imperial subsidy has been obtained. The British government has already been formally approached by Canada for aid to both the Atlantic and Australian services, the vessels of which are to be used as armed cruisers. It is understood that, seeing a prospect of Plymouth becoming a port of call, influential members of the Cabinet and call, influential members of the Cabinet and Parliament who are concerned in Plymouth, are being induced to press the quest ion upon Mr. Goschen, Chancellor of the Exchequer. This will help to meet the influence of Liverpool in favor of a modified service, only slightly better than that now running. The friends of the fast service think that imperial aid to the extent of £50,000 annually will place the commercial success of the project beyond doubt. Hon. Mr. Harvey is still in London on be-

SEVERAL SHOCKS OF BARTHQUAKE FELT LAST

ROME, Jan. 23.—There were several quite serious shocks of earthquake felt here last night, which caused a panic in the more crowded quarters of the city. The inhabitants of the house in these places thought their dwellings were about to fall and they rushed into the streets, many of them in dishabille, not waiting to save any of their personal effects. So thoroughly frightened were they and so much did they fear a repetition of the shocks that nothing could induce them to return to their dwellings, and they remained on the streets all night, seeking for better security the open places, where they would be out of the reach of any falling buildings.

The theaters shook with the violence of the shocks and the persons present at the performances were greatly frightened. The panic soon subsided, however. Most of the clocks in the city stopped at 11:27. The ground shook so violently that the street lamps were extinguished, and it is feared that damage may perhaps have been done to the underground pipes.

may perhaps have been done to the underground pipes.

The Pope was aroused by the earth tremor.
He immediately sent to the Vatican observatory to inquire if they were likely to prove serious. His Holiness was assured that there was no danger or any prospect of any and he thereupon retired for the night.

The effects of the earthquake were quite serious in the Province of Rome, which the dispatches being received show was very generally affected. At Cenzano, a town of about 5.000 inhabitants, situated eighteen miles southwest from Rome on the Azan way, several houses collapsed. The immates had taken fright at the first underground rumblings and had sought safety in flight and consequently no one was injured. At Civita Lavigna (the Laduevium of the Ancients), eighteen miles southeast of Rome, where there are a number of Roman antiquities, the historical tower fell.

Many houses were damaged at Velletri, twenty-one miles southeast of Rome. No loss of life has been reported from the places thus far heard from.

CONTRACT LABOR. Violations of the Law Reported in Pennsylvania Mining Regions. New York, Jan. 23.-Messrs, Conklin and Osborne, who were sent from thiscity to the mining districts of Pennsylvania to investigate the working of the alien contract law, have sent their report to Secretary Foster of the Treasury Department. Their report states that they discovered evidences of wholesale violation of the law that was framed to protect American workingmen. In the mines surrounding Scranton it was found that nine-tenths of the miners at present employed are Hungarians, Italians or Sclavs. Five years ago the miners there were nearly all Americans. At the Arion mine in Western Pennsylvania Maj. Osborne learned that Hungarian and Italian immigrants come there in squads of 200 at a time direct from the barge office in this city under charge of padrones. At the mines near Carbondale in 1886 there were 500 miners, all American citizens. While the miners' strike was on in 1889 and 1890, large numbers of Sclavs and Hungarians were brought to the mines from Castle Garden under the protection of Pinkerton's detectives. At the last election, out of 787 miners employed there, just sixty-eight were entitled to vote. The inspectors found that immigrants were brought over from Europe in droves, passed through the Barge Office by an agent and taken to the mines to supercede American miners. There are several men employed by the mine owners whose sole duty it is to visit the Barge Office and get immigrant contract laborers passed through. One man in particular was nicknamed the "Much Cousin Man," as he would visit the barge office and secure the release of detained immigrants, claiming them as cousins, brothers or other relatives. The inspectors recommend more stringent scrutiny of immigrants passing through the different landing places. At present they say the law is practically useless as contract laborers pass through by thousands without detection. or Sclavs. Five years ago the miners there has been in the courts for four years, has just been decided in favor of the Bishop. The case in question involves the title to a large tract of land formerly owned by a hermit named James Finnegan. When about to die the hermit made a will, which was in effect that his estate should go to the Catholic Church, but that his brother Patrick should have the use of the land while he lived. The understanding was agreed to by Patrick Finnegan and the parish priest, Father Thiesen. The latter, believing in Patrick's honesty, deemed it unnecessary to have nim sign the papers, deeding the land to the church. When Patrick died some years afterward he willed his brother's property, together with his own lands, to his son, Henry. Hence the suit.

NEVADA, Mo., Jan. 23.—Robert Hepler, who murdered the Goodley family in Barton County last Sunday and who was brought from Lamar to this place Monday to prevent a lynching, was taken from jail here last night by a mob of 200 men from Barton County. The Sheriff of Barton County was here and as soon as he heard the mob was in the city he hastened to the jail and attempted to get the prisoner away before they arrived. found the prisoner was gone it was decided useless to follow farther.

It had been planned by the mob that those who had remained at the Junction should board the train there, while those in charge of the prisoner should hurry on to Milo, seven miles south of Nevada. If the militia got on the train everything was to remain seven miles south of Nevada. If the militia got on the train everything was to remain not on the train one shot was to be fired as a signal that all was clear. a few minutes later the prisoner was hustled on board.

THE LAST ACT.

On arriving at Lamar the mob first took the prisoner to the jail and from there to the southeast part of the town, where they prepared to draw him to the limb of a tree. The prisoner long before this had regained his composure, and on being asked if he had anything to say he told them he realized his time had come and was glad they nad taken him back to Lamar to hang him. He said that if he had committed the deed of which he was charged he was drunk and did not recollect anything of it. There was no reason why he should do it, as the Geodleys had always been his best friends and he had nothing whatever against them.

style of 1,000 years ago. The interior will be devoted to a collection of Japanese fine arts and curlosities, representing three different epochs in our history—one hundred years ago, the second 600 years back, and the third showing features of the last half century. Each period marks a different dynasty and the display will be a sort of historical panorama. A bazaar will also be provided for general exhibits.

"A great deal of interest in the World's Fair is manifested in Japan. No one is opposing the participation in the exposition, and there was no trouble in securing the appropriation from Parliament. The national exhibit will be much finer than that sent to the Centennial in 1876. All of these Japanese products will be exhibited in competitive departments. Special features will be made of different kinds of silk and all varieties of tea. Fine arts will also be well provided for in the Government Building and by individual exhibitors.

Minister Montt to Be Ignored in Future Negotiations-The Result of Peace or War Rests Now With the Andean Republic-Tenor of Instructions Sent to Minister Egan.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Jan. 23 .- Chill must hasten her reply to our demands.
Such was the tenor of a cablegram sent to finister Egan at Santiago yesterday. The dispatch bore the signature of Secretary Blaine, but it was inspired by president Har-rison, after the two great men had had an-other conference regarding the situation in peremptory in characther than any that has been previously sent to Mr. Egan, and the opinion was expressed at the Cabinet meet-ing yesterday that it would hardly fall to se-cure the result desired. It was said last evening that President Harrison has decided to communicate directly with Minister Egan in future, and not through Minister Montt, as has been in part the custom for some time. This does not argue a want of confidence in Minister Montt, or a cessation of the present agreeable relations between himself and the Administration. But President Harrison bevolves more or less delay, which may be avoided by cabling direct to Minister Egan. There is, however, another purpose which does not appear on the surface. President Harrison knows that Chili would like us to recall Mr. Egan. If the President can show that Mr. Egan's services at Santiago are a daily and even hourly necessity, the Chilian Foeign Office is much less likely to demand his recall than when we have den our entire willingness to transact our busi-ness through the Chilian representative at this point. There is no likelihood, however, that Mr. Egan will be recalled, no matter what the Government of Chili may desire. Of course, if they gave him his passports and sent him out of the country we could not

New York, Jan. 23.—Information has been received here this afternoon from Santiago de Chili that it is announced there that the Government has received a strong ultimatum from the United States and that no further delay in the settlement of the dispute be-tween the two Governments will be toler-ated. An answer is expected hourly, but up to last evening nothing had been received.

Dispatches have come from Minister Egan, but none of them has conveyed any information of a nature to change the conditions of the controversy. A definite declaration of the Chillian Government, that if given time to allay feeling at home, it will withdraw the offensive Matta note and will make an apology to the United States for the Valparaiso outrage, will be acpected by our Government in good faith and every opportunity will be in good faith and every opportunity afforded the districted republic to good its pledge. A refusal to answer I request one way or another will have be good its piedge. A refusal to answer Egan's request one way or another will have but one meaing.

In sending to Minister Egan its demand for a categorical answer from Chili the administration has deliberately ignored the presence of Minister Montt as the representative of the santiago government. The question is one of so much delicacy and the answer of the Chilian government will be so momentous in its consequences that President Harrison has thought it wise not to complicate the situation by bringing the Chilian representative at Washington into the negotiations. The situation is more critical than at any previous period of the controversy.

The cabinet would not be surprised if Minister Montt, finding himself set aside in the negotiations, should conclude to withdraw from the country. The action of the administration was taken with this possibility in view. The time for diplomatic subterfugal has passed, and there will be no more delay for any cause unless the Chilian Government states definitely and at once its intention to satisfy fully the demands of the United States.

It is known that President Mon* is harassed by factions and is being ho ided by discontented politicians. The strength of the Congressionalists lies entirely in the large cities like Valparaiso and Santiago. The country districts are loyal to Balmaceda and would welcome an opportunity to incite a revoit; and President Harrison has been ready from the beginning to make allowances for these conditions if the Santiago Government would intimate in the most private way possible that internal dissensions were entirely responsible for the delay, but no such intimation has been received at any stage.

The present case is even stronger in such a showing than any jet laid before the public. It shows that when it comes to a question of obliging an "influential friend" at the expense of the law, or recognizing the rights of citizens under the law at the expense of the "influential friend," the latter has the first claim on Can Ziegenhein every time.

There is now under way a movement to secure legal action in the case of the Lindell Park saloon and amusement grounds, following a failure to secure any action from Collector Ziegenhein. But this proposed appeal to the courts follows a significant contest made in vain before Collector Ziegenhein, and only chanced to become possible story of the contest before Czar Ziegenhein makes a peculiar prelude to the present condition of the Lindeil Park saloon case.

THE LINDELL PARK SALOON CASE.

Last November the citizens whose residences fronted Lindeil Park, on St. Louis hear Glesgow avenue, filed a complaint against Proprietor Simons of the saloon situated in the block occupied by Lindeil Park. The complaint was to the effect that the grounds—used by Simons in connection with his saloon as amusement grounds for pichics, exhibitions, etc., was the scene of disorderly gatherings which greatly annoyed the residents of that locality, and was in violation of the laws inasmuch as they were the scenes of drunken, disorderly and dangerous gatherings. At first there was no protest against the saloon itself, the residents of the neighborhood wishing only to put a stop to what they claimed were riotous and disorderly gatherings in Lindeil Park, which was used by Simons as pleasure grounds. This complaint was made to Collector Ziegenhein and also to the Police Board. and was stated above. But the protest has received no attention from Czar Ziegenheim, and it is believed that the licenses to the new proprietors have been issued.

The contest has now been placed in the hands of a legal firm, with instructions to carry it into the courts, and it is intended to ask for an injunction preventing the lecenses remaining in force, on the ground that they were issued in violation of the laws governing the subject. There are likely to be some interesting developments of "Ziegenhein methods" in the testimony taken in the injunction proceedings.

A few months ago the Springfield District was full of candidates for the Republican nomination for Congress, he says, but Gov. Francis' proclamation for a redistricting of the State killed their ambitton for Congressional honors and they are now all willing to accept a nomination for Prosecuting Attorney. He thinks the Democrats will have a hard time gerrymandering the State so as to get even fourteen Congressmen out of it, and says that notwithstanding the consternation which the Governor's proclamation caused among the Republican office seekers of Springfield, the district may yet be carried for the Republican party, particular iy if the boundary lines are fixed as now proposed. Although still proud of the title of Farmer Wade, he says that he takes no stock in the Alliances movement, and will not attend the Farmers' Convention to be held in St. Louis next month.

obtain possession of property at 312 and 314 Lami street. She states that she purchased the property from L. M. Dickson, March 19, 1890, paying for it with her own money. Her daughter, she alleges, begged and importuned her not to have the deed to the property

In consequence of her daughter's importunities and believing her statements, having the utmost confidence in her daughter, Mrs. Neuhaus alleges she was finally prevailed upon to have the deed made out in her daughter's name. As soon as this was accomplished Mrs. Neuhaus alleges her daughter held the property and now collects the rents and profits and refuses to turn them over to her, but converts them to her own use, and has failed and refused to pay the taxes out of the rents.

but converts them to her own use, and has failed and refused to pay the taxes out of the rents.

Miss Eswin in her answer denies that she importuned her mother to have the deed of the property made to her. She also denies that she promised to hold the property for her mother or agreed to deed it back to her. She states that part of the money withly which the property was paid for was her own money, which she had saved out of her earnings. She includes in her savings wages for services for her mother for four years after she became of age. Her mether kept a restaurant at 201 Pine street and her daughter acted as cashier. Mrs. Neuhaus was a widow then the second time and her name was Heuther. The daughter Emma was of the first marriage. Miss Eswin alleges that the portion of the price paid by her mother with her own money was in the nature of a present to her by ner mother. Attorney Henry Broemier represented Mrs. Neuhaus and Lawyer Ben Schnurmacher is defending the case. Mrs. Neuhaus occupied the stand this morning and wept while she gave her testimony. She cannot speak English and her statements were submitted to the court by means of an interpreter. Her daughter is marked, aithough the latter is quite Americanized. She is of refined manners and prompted her attorney in the purest English.

It developed in the testimony that Mrs. Neuhaus had 5100 of her daughter's money at the time of the purchase, in addition to the young lady's claim for four years' services since she was 18. Miss Eswin tis not living with her mother now, she having left home when the trouble occurred about the property. Mrs. Neuhaus, questioned by Mr. Schurmacher, stated that her daughter had asked to be allowed to come home and that she told her she could if she would give up the property. Judge Klein rules that the powers asked for by the society are too wide and not within the contemplation of the law. For instance in the clause "to do and perform all other lawful acts and things."

There are a number of lawful acts the Court states which the law does not grant such a society the right to do.

PUBLIC BATH-HOUSES Will Probably Be Established Her

for the erection of the bath-houses. A was signed by Mayor Noonan March 31, 1890. It follows:

The Board of Public Improvements is bereby directed to select three locations in the city for public bath houses and submit to the Assembly plans, specifications and estimates of the cost of erecting and maintaining thereon bath houses that shall be tree to the public and open every day in the year, including Sundays and holidays, and said estimate shall include the cost of the ground accessary to be acquired for the above purpose.

"The comptroller," said Delegate Lehmann, "at that time, when everybody was clamoring for the bath houses, consented to appropriate $5,000 for them. It was too little to do any good, and I saw him and asked him to set the money aside for the purpose until we could get more. He said he would, but instead of doing that, he let all the money go back into the general fund, and it was spent for something else. Now, we have to go to work and get the money all over again. I'm starting in this early with the hope that if we can get George Burnet to help us we may get the bath houses up in time to be used next summer. It would be easy to do it. The plans are simple. We would need only about $15,000. One man at each house during the summer would be enough to care for the safety of the bathers."

Incidentally, Mr. Spaulding stated that the estimate for the river and harbor improvements next year was $46,000,000. He also stated that at the close of last month the Treasury had paid upwards of $1,000,000 in silver.

Mr. Spaulding said he believed the Treasury would come out about $6,000,000 ahead—that is, it would have that amount of surplus—at the end of 1899.

The Jefferson City Tribune, the leading jothe State capital, which makes a point of closely the welfare and progress of the State in a recent issue, the alarming prevalence and makes the following comment: disease, and makes the following comment thereas:

The grim reaper, death, has been busy in Missouri for the last two weeks. An examination of our exchange list, which embraces some thirty cities and over 400 towns in the State, shows a death rate that has certainly not been equated in many years, and probably never before, unless it was during the prevalence of the Asiatic cholerd. Many of the deaths are charged to la grippe, either directive of indirective. It seems that this strange dissence is usually fatal in cases where a victim is suffering from some other aliment, and it is frequently mistaken for some other disease. No doubt the recent cold weather will restore health to a great extent. A general improvement is already noticeable.

As the "cold weather," which was prayed for so ferrently, arrived three weeks ago and visited us with a severity seidom fielt in this climate, it might be supposed that the "grippe germs," of which we heard so much, had been destroved and the disease itself subjugated. But La Grippe is as prevalent today as it was during the unseasonable weather of December.

Eastern Traffic in Bad Shape, CHICAGO, Ill., Jan. 28.—Eastern traffic is again getting in bad shape. This is due to severe weather and snow drifts in the East. Shipments have been getting out of Chicago all right, but they fail to reach their sea-board destination, and the congestion has greatly retarded the movement. A lack of motive power is also noticeable on several of the Eastern roads. Were it not that the grain brought to Chicago by Western roads has greatly diminished a serious blockade here would be renewed.

Joss Not Chinese

'Joss,' so far from being, as I among others always imagined, a Chinese word, is merely the mispronunciant on of the Spanish dios, God. The discovery of this fell heavily upon me. It reduced my knowledge of Chineses from two words to one; but I have learned several since, but will not write them here, as I do not know what they mean. A and the writer both started with the determination of studying Chinese, and the writer let A. buy a grammar; but on discovering that the single letter f had its ways of being pronounced, and that each pronunciation had an entirely different meaning, we said that there was no poetry about the Chinese language, that it was not worth learning, and A.'s grammar was secretly consigned to the river mud by being dropped overboard.

throughout the trying hours of last night and this forenoon, although he did not sleep as soundly as usual, awakening shortly after midnight. A good breakfast was served, but he had little appetite for it, and ate very sparingly of dinner at il. He dressed himself with considerable care in a suit of black cloth. He was attended by his priest, Rev. J. C. Daw during the morning. Boyle was resigned to his fate and did not faiter throughout the whole trying ordeal. The march to the scaffold was begun at two minutes after two o'clock. Boyle mounted the steps unaided and was followed by Rev. Father Daw. When asked if he had anything he wished to say his reply in a firm tone was 'No, sir.' this was at 2:08 the trap was sprung, and the body descended, the fall being eight feet; the man's neck was proken and death resulted instantaneously. The body was removed after ten minutes and taken in charge by friends.

HOW A RUSSIAN PEASANT DIES. Count Leo Tolstoi Says He Welcomes the End of His Distress.

Count Leo Toistol described thus recently to Octave Houdaille, who visited him at Jasnaja-Pojana, how a Russian peasant dies: "Death is dark and terrible on the canvas of the painter, but here in the country it is almost a picture of mirth. I just came from a peasant's deathbed. The man knew that he must die and his pain lasted several days, yet not once did his serenity of soul leave him. When death was quite near, and, as is customary, a wax taper was placed in his hand, his faced assumed an expression of unutterable happiness. It seems strange to me after such a scene that I have feit so little emotion. Aside from all religious feeling, death is for these people a release from trouble; therefore, all absence of the cloud of sorrow seen elsewhere. It is the peace, the slumber which the peasant has longed for in the depth of his misery, and the sorrow of living is over." End of His Distress.

A Mystery of Rhode Island.

A Mystery of Rhode Island.

From the Pittsburg Dispatch.

Little Rhode Island is to contribute a genuine curiosity to the Chicago World's Pair. It will be an exact copy of the "old stone mill" which keeps Newyort, the fashionably exclusive, in touch with antiquity and makes the loyal Rhode Islander's bosom swell with pride every time he looks at it. It is merely a plain stone tower, some 24 feet in height and 25 feet in diameter. The walls of unhewn stone rest upon arches supported by eight columns, and the whole structure appears to have been originally covered with stucco. Nobody knows for certain who built it. Its origin has been long a choice morsel for New England antiquarians, some of whom will prove to you that it is a relic of the Vikings' earliest visits to these shores, and you may read in Longfellow of the Viking old, who boldly asserts

There for my lady's bower Built I the lofty lower Which, to this very hour.

Blands looking seaward.

Others more plausibly claim that it is "the stone-built windmill" to which Gov. Benedict Arnold referred in his will. This would make the will antedate 1677, surely a respectable age. Peter Easton, an early settler, notes in his diary for the year 1668: "This year we built our first windmill," and some think the lamented Mr. Easton was here referring to Newport's great treasure, although skeptics want to know why the good Puritans built windmills of stone when they were content to dwell for the most part in homes like that to which John Alden took Priscilla, Solid, substantial, of timber rough hewa from The first of the brest.

erecting a viaduct across its tracks. The Supreme Court held that the law binds railroad companies to provide sefe-guards at all crossings and all along their tracks at their own expense. The court says: "If railroads, so far as they are public highways, are, like other highways, subject to legislative supervision, then railroad companies, in relation to highways and streets which intersect their right of way, are subject to the control of the police power of the State—that power of which the court has said that "it may be assumed that it is a proper co-extensive with self-protection, and is not inaptly termed the law of overruling necessity." The court then asserts that railroads are public highways.

The committee appointed at the produce raisers' meeting on the 9th inst. to receive propositions for sites for a market place held ameeting at the Mayor's office this morning and discussed the several offers made to them. Shortly before noon they left the City Hall and started ont to inspect some of the best locations proposed. They will report at the meeting to be held this afternoon at the City Hall. The City Council has provided temporary means for the disposal of produce which the farmers made easier to bring into the proposed market to bring them permission to station their wagons on either side of Missouri areane and make what saiss they can in this way. This action was taken by the Council in response to a petition presented by the business man of the areans. The meeting in the City Hall this afternoon is expected to be an interesting one.

At the meeting of the City Council last evening a library board was appointed to establish and control a public library, An assessment of two miles per $100 on the valuation of its city property has been levied, and it is estimated that about $5,000 will be realized for the library fund this year. One of the largest renting agencies of the city, that of M. A. Wolff & Co., which has a great deal of down-town property on its books, says that since the thaw has commenced after the late storms great deal of damage to property has been done by the melting snow. The trouble all comes from the roof, and frozen down pipes, and the damage occasioned in this way will be fully equal to that caused by bursted water pipes. On many of the large oid buildings, having poorly designed roofs to protect the structure against the effects of such storms, and when the thaw began water, instead of flowing down the drains, was banked up and lying there over night froze into a compact for water, miniature skating rinks, were formed on the roof, and through several floors, in many cases floing injury not only to the building, but also to merchandise and office furniture. Claiborne is a very black, low-browed, dangerous looking negro, with an unsavory reputation. Miss Valstin, who is a neat, fairly good-looking young lady, said: 'I was returning home from a church rehearsal at 9:30 last night. I hurried along, and suddenly I heard this man behind me. I ran to avoid him, but he ran also. I tried to steal away from him, but I could not. At last at Natural Bridge road and Sophia avenue, he grasped me by the neck from behind. I screamed twice and fell to my knees, and he ran across the prairie.'' Officers Fittgerald and Gallagher were close at hand, and the young lady told them of her thrilling experience. She stated in court that she knew the negro, but did not see his face last night. The officers testified that they saw him run, and doubled back on him, capturing him within fifty yards of his attempted assault. Claiborne strennously protested his innocence, and alleged that he was in a grocery store at the time. The Judge clearly showed that it was his intention to give him the limit, if Claiborne's guilt was clear, but to give him at the same the besendt of all doubts. The court therefore continued the case until Monday to enable Claiborne to produce witnesses by whom he desires to prove an allibi.

Acts of the called session authorizing additional warrants to the amount of $300,000, will probably enlarge this deficit to $500,000.

And this is not all. The return of taxable property has been kept below $900, 000,000, and the 20-cent tax rate has been thereby retained about as long as it was ossible to do so in disregard of law, by the State Board of Equalization. Immense reductions have been conceded to Kansas City and various favored rural sections with this end in view. Everywhere outside of St. Louis the valuation has been kept at or below one-third instead of the full cash value required by State law, and Guarantees to Advertisers a Larger Local even the pretense of a just equalization Circulation than that of Any Other TWO has been abandoned. But now, in spite of all this, the assessment exceeds $910,000. 000, and entitles the people to a 15-cent rate under the constitution, which would out off about $390,000 from the present resources of the fund and increase the prospective deficit to nearly $900,000 Even if the State Board shall again evade the law of the State and arbitrarily impose an additional tax of $390,000 on the people by reducing the assessment below $900,000,-000, there will still be a deficit of somewhere between $300,000 and $600,000, according to the amounts appropriated by the extra session, and this deficit will have to be made good by an issue of bonds, an increase of the interest-bearing debt. The fact that the other State funds are all right does not obviate this difficulty. A little easy figuring last year would have taught the Governor and the Legislature that they were authorizing more expenditures than the resources of the Revenue Fund could meet.

They flooded the lakes on the 20th with all the snow that was on them, little thinking what a large amount of water they thinking what a large amount of water they would have to use to melt that snow. Consequently the snow was not melted, and the lakes cannot be used until a general thaw and then another freeze-up. The Park Commissioner seemed to be very slow about fixing the lakes this year. The skating this year has been from the 3d inst. until now. The bth it snowed and they never attempted to clean the lake until after the snow of the 10th and then did not start until the 13th, and then only cleaned a part of the lake, that being the worst part.

own stairs are store-rooms and distributing been substituted for the dailies of all the principal cities. Of course I did not find what I wanted; it would have been surprising if I had, for a rehash of last week's events, designed for the rural reader, is hardly adapted to the wants of anyone accustomed to the great dailies now published in all the leading cities. As a life member of the Library I feel that I have a right to protest against the change; it is a step backward, and a discredit to our boasted "Free Reading Room." Many young men have been attracted to this room, who would doubtless have otherwise spent their evenings and Sundays in a salcon or so called "social club;" if the papers are changed only once a week, such visits will finally cease altogether. There is, besides, a remarkable y sameness about "weekly editions," for the daily paper, in the boiling down process, local flavor. In this connection I also wish to call attention to the awkward manner in which the newspapers are placed on file. Each paper as it is received its laid wide open on previous issues and a wooden but run down the center by which they are faktened to an inclined frame or stand. One half of the leaves thus rost on each side of the bar. With the papers in this position it is a difficult matter to run over the files in search of anything as the further back you go the more widely do the pages of each is sue become separated. A much handler contrivance is used in most squalid poverty in their was clothes that had been given them. ERTY REPORTED BY THE POLICE.

While bundles and packages of all kinds and sizes were pouring into the Market street store-house yesterday, some of the people for whose benefit they were sent were having their wants satisfied temporarily at the southern relieving station of the Provident Association, No. 1785 Second Carondelet ave-nue. The house there has two stories, and is large and roomy, with a yard in front and behind. In the rear inclosure are sheds filled with coal, tons of it.
The matron, Mrs. Edward Smith, lives up stairs with her husband. The rooms offices. When the first wagon drove up to the house from the main depot, loaded with ered around the big stove in the distributing or very young. There was not a vigorous person, one capable of self-support, among them. Some of them were maimed, some deaf and dumb and some blind. Some were most meanly dressed and betrayed the greetings, no looks of recognition. Those already there did not even lift their eyes when new comers entered the room.

When the wagons began to drive up to the back part of the house and unload the food and clothing they carried in full view of the poor people in the room, eyes began to glisten and a bustle arose. Henry Heming, L. J. Miller and Joseph Howard began to take the bread from the wagon and pile it in large boxes, and the clothing was taken into another room. Old men began to come close to the boxes and watch the rising heap of loaves with covetous eyes. By and by Supt. W. J. Clark came in, meatly dressed and with an air of sympathy and encouragement about him that changed the atmospeers of the room in a twinkling. The old people began to talk to each other and the children were laughing at little tricks they were playing on one another.

"Now, then," said Supt. Clark londly and cheerfully, "we are ready. Who's first."

Ther for four hours they filed past the table where he sat with pen and ink, to the bread, the bags of corn meal and the pile of clothing in the other room. Each one had a ticket, which showed the exact condition of the family and what they needed. The ticket is "Now, then," said Supt. Clark loudly and cheerfully, "we are ready. Who's first."

and call out to the distributors what to give. Then the old man or the old woman or the children would pass along, get their loaves of bread in their basket and their corn meal in a sack, and then on to the clothing-room. All this was done with astonishing rapidity. All hands helped, and everybody brightened up as the work went on. The questions of supt. Clark draw out some startling revelations of misery. Here was an old woman whose husband had been a school teacher in Peoria, Ill. She had his certificate in her pocket and showed it to the superintendent, as she stopped, with great pride. A woman, the youngest of all of them there, showed her tioket and went to the bread and the meal with a kind of flerce energy that draw attention. The superintendent looked at her sharply. "Are you in any worse trouble, Mrs. Rose?" he asked.

"I'll never be in any worse trouble than I'm in now, God help me!" said she. "Nothing in the house, and my children crying, and the landlord won't walt."

"When you want us to we'll take your children and provide for them," said the superintendent.

The woman was holding her bag for the meal and looked up with dark eyes flashing passionately. "When you get ready to cut my throat you can come and get my children," said she, and then, surprised by her vehemence, she averted her face, took her basket and vanished.

ALMOST BARRFOOTED.

Later in the afternoon President R. M. Scruggs dropped in and sat on a bench with the people. "Several of these people are almost barefooted," whispered the superintendent to him. "May I tell them they will get shoes."

"Yes, yes," answered the President, "tell them that. We will give some of them tea, too."

Occasionally a carriage drew up at the front door and some lady, interested in the work of the association, would get out and come into the rooms, a bright vision of prosperity in the midst of those victims of misery. Find, being called upon, said the heat would have no effect, except to dry the work soner than usual.

Mr. Taylor then took up a line of questions intended to get Mr. Furlong's exact idea in regard to his structure and his approval of the test. "Do you call this a lintel or an arch?" This question was put with a view to determine the nature of the test, which would vary according as the sample construction was called a lintel or an arch. Mr. Furlong answered: "A lintel or slab," as Mr. Barnett sungested. Mr. Taylor then sketched an outline of the test. The span was 15½ feet, the depth of the arch 19 inches at the ends and 5 inches at the center. The structure had a bearing of five inches upon the 13-inch brick walls which supported the lintel as Mr. Furlong calls it. This test arch was supposed to be six feet deep with an iron rod at each end, so that the whole would be a very good section of the structure in question which is 180 feet deep. "Will that conform to your notion of a satisfactory test?" asked Mr. Taylor. "Approximately," said Furlong, "because the structure proper will be buttressed by the walls and the weight of the building." Mr. Taylor then returned to the definition. "You define this to be a lintel sustained only by the general weight of the construction as indicated by the drawings?" Mr. Furlong approved of the definition. "Then how much stress do you calculate to put on those niche rods?"

"I do not know," Mr. Furlong answered,

The meeting, which was largely prelim nary, broke up without making any definit arrangements for the tests. Mr. Flad sai afterwards that the experimental sectio could not be subjected to the test for a month after its erection, becaus it had to dry out. He did not know wha kind of pressure would be used, whethe hydraulic or otherwise. He was of the opinion that they would pile pig iron on this structure, and determine the breaking weight.

The Bureau of Information of the Autumnal

Festivities Association has issued a report showing the work undertaken and accomplished by it since its organization last fall.
The bureau is in reality the Advertising Committee of the association, and as such it did considerable important work in advertising the fall festivities, illuminations and other attractions. In August last the committee, of which Goodman King rears. The society has been losing ground for some time, it seems, although the matter was kept quiet and even the members, with the exception of the officers and a few others, and and addresses to James Cox, Secretary of the Bureau.

The different railroad companies having offices in or connections with St. Louis were communicated with during the fail. Samples of the advertising matter issued by them were received at this office, and are being preserved for future use and reference. The different companies displayed a most commendable desire to assist the people of the Louis in the different companies displayed a most commendable desire to assist the people of the Louis in the different companies displayed a fine of their routes, were couched in such language as to induce the utmost possible travel to the city, thereby not only benefiting themselves, but also assisting the city of St. Louis, and the burean wishes to say that it has met with the most cordial sympathy in its work from railroad officials generally, all of whom seem to be in hearty sympathy with the movement to advance the least interests of the city.

Well ADVERTISED.

WELL ADVERTISED. WELL ADVERTISED.

The report goes on to state that in addition to display advertising the bureau has been able to call attention to the carnival attractions and commercial greatness of St. Louis by means of several columns of reading notices inserted at its request in the Post-Disparch and other local papers, and there is a hint to those interested in the city's progress that whenever anything transpires in the local mercantile and financial world of interest or importance to St. Louis, subscribers would greatly assist in this work by notifying the Secretary of the Eureau, who will at once obtain details and cammunicate them to the papers, both in and outside the city.

A long list is also given of articles and notices published at the instance of the bureau in journals and periodicals published outside of St. Louis. The first success in this direction is thus described:

a thirty-four page illustrated article in a leading Boston magazine and a large number of other notices of the city are aliuded to, and prominence is given to a series of twelve briefer articles on the city's progress, which are being published monthly. The bureau also speaks with much enthusiasm on the increased attention given to St. Louis by the press of other cities, and in this connection says:

to the Annual Pectivities Fund, as well as of others interested in the welfare of St. Louis who may not yet have interested themselves in the movement; and in further pursuance of this thought it is proposed to issue reprote from time to time as occasion warrants. It is particularly requested that suggestions as to the best course to be pursued to bring and keep the advantages of St. Louis before the werid be sent to the office. A suggestion book is kept open and a record made of every effort suggested. It is only by the aid and support of St. Louisans generally that the best results can be obtained, and this support the bureau hopes it will receive in even greater measure in the future than hereiofore.

No Less Than Five Physicians Consulted. Their Combined Wisdom Fol-lowed Without Benefit.

I am 66 years old. In August, 1880, was troubled with the peculiar skin disease to which people of my age are subject, known among medical mea as eccoma. Its first appearance was near the ankies. It rapidly extended ever the lower extramities until my legs were nearly one faw sorm from legs the trouble extended across the hips, shoulders and the entire learsth of the arms, the legs and arms greatly swoffen with an itching, burning pain, without constitute. Although the best medical advice attainable was employed, no less than five physicians of the place being consulted and the prescriptions being the result of their combined wisdom, the disease, though as ever; during its progress my weight full away about twenty-five pounds. As an experiment began the use of CUTICURA, following the simple and plain instructions given with the REMEDIES, and in four weeks found myself well, with skin soft and natural in color, the litching and pain entirely relieved.

DOCTORS DISAGREE.

Three Theories About Catarrh.

is Catarrh a Local, Constitutional, or Sys-

Discussed in a Lecture by Dr. S. B. Hartman at the Surgical Hotel, Columbus, O.

Reported for the Press.

There are three distinct theories held by the medical profession as to the nature of the disease known as catarrh. Each of them is believed and taught by different physicians of eminence and equal learning. Briefly stated they are as follows:

First—That chronic catarrh is a local disease. This theory denies that catarrh is caused either by any derangement of the system or by any constitutional taint, but is solely limited to the part or parts which are visibly affected. The practitioners who hold to this theory treat every case of catarrh locally, and rarely, if ever, give medicine internally. My opinion is, however, that local applications can never cure chronic catarrh. The various kinds and modes of local appli-The various kinds and modes of local applications, such as sprays, atomizers, douches, inhalants, funications, creams, ointments, lotions, gargles, etc., etc., have in many cases a soothing effect on the inflamed surfaces, and are sometimes useful to assist a cure; but neither of them nor all of them to-cure; but neither of them nor all of them together ever did or ever will cure a case of catarrh. These things may give temporary relief, but it is useless to expect a cure of them. Catarrh is not a local disease, hence cannot be cured by local treatment.

The second theory of the nature of catarrh is that it is a constitutional or blood disease.
Those who believe this theory to be the true one treat chronic catarrh only with blood medicines, hoping, by cleaning the blood, to eradicate the disease. Thus it is that we find a certain class of physicians hoping to cure a certain class of physicians hoping to cure catarrh by the use of sarsaparillas, alteratives and various other compounds to cleans the system. While it is no doubt true tha many cases of chronic catarrh are associate with or complicated by constitutional dis cases, such as scrofula, erysipelas, syphilis stc., yet catarrh is distinct from them and cannot be cured by blood medicines. Of course, it is sometimes necessary in cases where the catarrh is complicated by constitutional disease to first cleanse the system: catarrh remains the same as ever unless some specific for the catarrh itself is used to com-plete the cure. Catarrh is not a blood disease, hence cannot be cured by blood medicines.

The third theory is, that catarrh is a systemic disease, and therefore requires persistent internal treatment, sometimes for many months, before a permanent cure is effected. I believe this theory to be the correct one. The mucous lining of the cavities of the head, throat, lungs, etc., are made up of a net-work of minute blood vessels, called capillaries. The capillaries are very small elastic tubes which in all cases of chronic elastic tubes which in all cases of chronic elastic tubes which, in all cases of chronic catarrh, are congested or bulged out with blood so long that the elasticity of the tubes is entirely destroyed. The perves which supply those capillaries with vitality are called the "vasa-motor" nerves. Any medicine, to reach the real difficulty and exert the alightest curative action in any case of catarrh, must operate directly on the vasa-motor system of nerves.

As soon as these nerves become strengthened and stimulated by the action of a proper remedy they restore to the capillary vessels of the various mucuous mem-branes of the body their normal elasticity. Then, and only then, will the catarrh be pe Then, and only then, will the catarrh be per-manently cured. Thus it will be seen that catarrh is not a blood disease, as many sup-pose, but rather a disease of the mucous blood vessels. This explains why it is that so many excellent blood medicines utterly fall to cure catarrh.

The only hope of success in the permanent cure of a case of chronic catarrh is to devise some remedy that will stimulate the nerves which supply the capillary blood vessels. I know of but one remedy that has this most desirable effect, and that remedy is Pe-rn-na. This remedy strikes at once the root of the catarrh by restoring to the capillary vessels are re their healthy elasticity. Pe-ru-na is not a temporary palliative, but a radical cure.

If the chronic catarrh be of a mild characer, take a tablespoonful of Pe-ru-na befor tanding, and there is much hawking and ex-pectoration, begin with the above dose and gradually increase the dose to two table-spoonfuls before each meal. If the chronic catarrh is of the atrophic variety (that is, forming large, dry scabs in the nose, or when the breath is very offensive from the ulceration going on under the scabs), the dose should be increased to three tablespoonfuls before each meal. In this and all other chronic diseases, should the bowels be dry or constipated, take a sufficient dose of Man-alia at bedtime to produce one natural passage of the bowels each day.

Walter Crane was born at Liverpool, 1848

He studied drawing under W. J. Linton, the distinguished representative of the old school of wood engraving, and in 1871 went to distinguished representative of the old school of wood engraving, and in 1871 went to Italy, where he remained two years. He is a painter in oils and water colors, but he is best known by his admirable illustrations for children's books, snch as "Beauty and the Beast," "Baby's Opera," "Cinderella," "Goody Two Shoes," etc. He has designed a frieze for the dining-room belonging to Miss G. L. Wolfe of Newport. R. I., the subject for this piece being, "The subject for this piece being, in 1858 that Mr. Crane began to make those pictures for old nursery tales which marked a new era of illustrating books for little folks. While amusing and interesting to the children, his works have also been the delight of older people. At first his pictures in this line were not received with great attention in England, though their merit was recognized in Paris, and he received from Vienna a tribute in the shape of a round roblin, sent by the entire faculty of the Government School of Design. When he returned from Italy in 1873, he found that during his absence his work had become popular, and his name was established. A demand, for Mr. Crane's works is such that they are issued in large numbers without text, which is subsequently added in the language of the country from which they are issued. Thus Mr. Orane's illustrations are not only found all parts of the civilized world, but are identical wherever they are found.

During the exhibition Mr. Crane will visit the city and will deliver a lecture before annual members and students at Memorial Hail on the subject of "Design in Belation to Use and Material." At the same time that Mr. Crane's exhibition is being held at the museum there will also be an exhibition of architectural drawings from many of the principal architects of the country.

One of the easiest and most business-like methods the Board of Control could adopt to close Guttenburg would be to stir up Peter De Lacy and get him on the warpath. De Lacy was the originator of the only system of closing racetracks tight ara drum. He stated only a few days ago that he didn't have to lose one hour's sleep to close the Monmouth Park, Elizabeth and Linden tracks. His work stands, too, for they haven't opened since. Let the Board of Control point over the North River to Weehawken and say, "S-s-sig-em! De Lacy."

which the death of Catcher Flint affected

SALOONKEEPING BALL PLAYERS.

A Chicago telegram says: Base ball players

Jockey Garrison is quite versatile in accomplishments other than riding horses. He is a good shot with a gun, plays an excellent game of pool or billiands, makes big scores at bowling, but cannot hold up his end at poker.

Merry Girl, a 5-year-old mare, the property of A. O. Humphrey, swerved while coming down the stretch in the third race at the South Side track and collided with the inside fence, which broke. Site was thrown over an embankment of snow, resulting in the unfortunate animal's almost instant death. Beyond a bad shaking up the jockey, Kuhn, was uninjured. HE CLAIMS JIM HAS THE GREATER REPU-TATION IN AUSTRALIA.

Fits Challenges Hall to Fight Him—The Kangaroo No w Matched to Meet Maher -Scheefer Vanquishes Slosson at Billiards-Racing, Base Ball and Sporting News of All Rinds.

Now that it looks as if a match will be ar-

Now that it looks as if a match will be arranged between Bob Fitzsimmons of New Zealand, the conqueror of fack Dempsey, and Jim Hall of Australis, much gossip is being indulged in throughout sporting circles over the respective abilities of both men. If the contest is ever arranged Fitzsimmons will go into the ring a heavy favorite, at least as far as the American betting public is concerned. Most of the Australian fighters over here state, however, that Hall is considered Fitzsimmons' superior in the antip-Louis Publishing Company Fitzsimmons' superior in the antipodes. Frank Slavin, the heavy-weight, was interviewed on the ce last Monday to the Louisians State Loan & Trust Co., which was organized with an alleged capital of $50,000,000 for the question at Chicago recently, and is quoted as saying: "I cannot understand the lack of purpose of inducing people to invest in it under supposition that they were buyconfidence in Hall in America. In Australia he met 'Fitz' four times and was considered by far the better of the two. Why, the beting tickets in the Louisiana Lottery. If that representation had been true, the swindle which the death of Catcher Flint affected Anson.

At the funeral Anson cried like a child.

No one had ever seen him cry before.

At Flint's request Bill Sunday, the ball player evangelist, delivered a short sermon over the body.

It was while Sunday was speaking that Anson broke down and wept. Sunday said:

"When a man is at the bat in a base ball game there are nine other men standing in their positions waiting to receive the ball when it is knocked.

"Each knows it cannot be knocked in all directions at once, but he awaits the chance ready to catch and hold it.

"It is thus with us, and we should stand on our base with outstretched hands to catch the hereafter, and we should live pure lives that we may not, by unsteadiness, muff the precious boon when it falls.

"It may not come to-day or to-morrow, but we should not be taken unawares when it does come.

"I was up to see Frank before he died, and representation had been true, the swindle would have been bad enough, but the new company was shown to be even a greater fraud than the lottery and had no connection with it. As has already been published, the president of the Louisiana State Lottery received a dun for its which had been sent to him by mistake by W. D. Alexander, business manager of the St. Louis Life, for advertising the bogus Loan & Trust Co., the advertising the bogus Loan & Trust Co., the advertisement having been inserted by Peter J. Huber, agent of the fraudulent concern. Under the supposition that Mr. Alexander hadn't read the St. Louis papers, the lifem says:

How the publishers of Life could have permitted fight in Australia." This, though coming as it does from a man who knows both men perfectly, and a person capable to talk on the subject, is not apt to change the prevailing impression. apt to change the prevailing impression. Another friend of Hall's, speaking on the subject recently, said: "There seems to be an impression over here that Hall is a quitter, but Jim is a fighter of buildog courage, and besides possessing unlimited gameness and pluck, is Fitzsimmons' superior in science. In fact, he was considered one of the most scientific pugilists in the Colonies." "Parson" Davies, Hall's American manager, stated in New York recently that the latter was perfectly willing to meet Fitzsimmons, and nothing would please him better than a chance to punch "Lanky Bob's" head off. "In fact," said the "Parson," "Jim will whip Mr. Fitzsimmons to a dead cer-

"It may not come to-day or to-morrow, but we should not be taken unawares when it does come.

"I was up to see Frank before he died, and he sald to me, 'I'm lasting a good while, but it amounts to nothing. I could live it out if I could only see. These are just fouls I'm hitting. If Goldy was here now he'd call the game on account of darkness."

"I described the beauties of the hereafter to him, and he smiled. He said, 'Billy, I am not afraid of the umpire,' and, boys, I know he is all right.

"Frank is gone. We shall see him again on the other shore after the game is called.

"We ought to play so that we can retire with a good record to our credit."

Then Sunday prayed long and fervently.

SALOONKEEPING BALL FLAYERS. This talk, however, must be carefully considered and the circumstances under which it is uttered taken into consideration.

This talk, however, must be carefully considered and the circumstances under which it is uttered taken into consideration. Fitzsimmons' backer, if asked for an opinion, would beyond a doubt be equally as positive about "Lanky Bob's" ability to wipe Hall off the face of the earth. Fitzsimmons' statement that he does not want to fight Hall because the latter is a blowhard who has lied about him and who will never get into the ring with him is hardly a good excuse. Under the circumstances one would expect that he would be the very man Fitz would want to meet. If he has a grievance against Hall he would thus be afforded a glorious opportunity to take it out of the fellow's hide, and at the same time be bandsomely paid for the pleasure he had in doing so.

Hall, on the other hand, with all his bluster, does not appear to be unduly anxious to meet Fitzsimmons. It was claimed that when they were to have fought before the Twin City Club Hall was more than pleased to have the mill prevented and would not consent to fighting elsewhere, while Fitzsimmons was willing to battle anywhere.

Fitzsimmons, it is claimed, has challenged Hall to fight within one month at 158 pounds before the club offering the largest purse, each man to post $1,000 forfeit to bind the match. Fitzsimmons also offers to put up a side bet for any sum suitable to Hall.

Hall has not yet replied to the challenge of Fitzsimmons, but it is claimed that he cannot get ready for a battle within a month's time. It is certainly a short preparation for a fight. As Fitzsimmons has been at Bay St. Louis training, he would have a big advantage over Hall, who is out of training. The conditions are therefore unfair, and the challenge looks like a bluff. Again, it is stated positively that articles for a battle between Fitzsimmons and Peter Maher were signed in New York Thursday night. It is to be for a $10,000 purse and to take place before the Olympic Club, signed for Fitzsimmons and the club, President Noel of the club telegraphing that the New Zealander had cons season's Brooklyn team, a New York ex-change says that Outfielder Darby O'Brien change says that Outfielder Darby O'Brien will probably not be signed for the coming season. It says: "Objection to O'Brien as a member of the team seems to be well based. Darby last year became financially interested in a saloon in Brooklyn and neglected his club duties for the saloon. He is still part owner of the Emporeum. His name was not included in Brooklyn's reserve list. If he goes elsewhere to play he will have to give up his personal attention in the saloon. He is not the only good player who has lost his reputation on the diamond by being tempted to run a saloon. Many ball players believe their popularity is such that all they have to do to obtain wealth is to go into business and let the admiring world rush up and lay its wealth down at their feet. The dream is short but pleasant. The awakening is disgusting. George Gore was made to give up his saloon last spring before the New York club would sign him. When the Cincinnaticlub wanted to sign Keenan last fail he raised his inst year's salary $500 on the strength, probably, that he had a saloon business which must be more or loss neglected when he plays. Just now Mr. Keenan is not in much demand as a ball player or a concocter of drinks."

CRESCENT CITY PUGILISTIC CLUBS AT WAR.

When the Hudson County Grand-jury met last Tuesday it was confidently expected by a good many persons that D. D. Withers and

A. J. Cassatt, owners of the Monmouth Park

A. J. Cassatt, owners of the Monmouth Park track, would be present as witnesses to tell what they know about an alleged conspiracy to bribe the New Jersey Court of Errors and Appasis, says a New York dispatch. Neither was present and neither was subpcemed. It has been stated authoritatively that Cassatt and Witners will be required to make at least one visit to the Grand-jury before that body completes its work for the term.

County Clerk McLaughlin, who is admittedly a large stockholder in the track on the hill, is thoroughly angered at the course the Board of Control has pursued to compel him to use his personal influence to reopen the gates of Monmouth Park, and he reiter ates that he is going to fight with all the weapons at his command.

The officials of the Guttenburg track say they will keep the fight up all winter if necessary. They profess not to have the least fear about the result. A county official who is friendly with the race-track people said that he would not be surprised if the Grand-Jury made a thorough investigation of the motives that prompted the recent raid. He added that the race-track people were in possession of information that a big sum of money had been raised to influence public opinion against the Guttenburg track. Said he: "Money is put out right and left. Capt. Graham, I am informed, is under a weekly salary of $100, and each of his brothers is paid $5 a day for services. The other specials receive a like sum. A Justice, it is claimed, receives $200 a week. Who is putting up this money?"

The races at South side yesterday were run with the following results:

first: Hominy Bill, second; lid.
second race, purse, five furiouss—Caloosa, first second Bill, second; Palmyra, third. Time 1:00ia, Third race, purse, four and one-half furiouss—
Tate Clark, first; Allehue, second; Billow, third

James, better known as "Chicken" Wolf the famous hard-hitting outflelder of the Louisville Ball Club, died at the Kentucky metropolis last Monday. Wolf was a native of Louisville and has been a member of the signed immediately. Maher is guaranteed $1,000 by the club in case Fitzsimmons fails to appear to fight.

Now, if Fitz is to fight Maher on March 2, a little over five weeks hence, how can he fight hali within a month? The challenge to hall may have been and probably was mailed before Fitz agreed to fight Maher. In that case there is no prospect for a battle between of Louisville and has been a member of the Colonels ever since the present aggregation was organized over twelve years ago. He has covered right field and occasionally other positions. Although he has fallen off greatly of late years in his outfield work, he still held his own in batting and led the American Association in that respect two years ago. ATHLETICS.

William Muldoon, the wrestler, has a bill which will probably be introduced in Congress by a member of the New York delegation for the establishment of a national school of athletics. Muldoon has given much attention to the subject, and he feels confident that his plan is perfectly practical, and that it will meet with favorable consideration.

deat that his pian is periectly practical, and that it will meet with favorable consideration.

His plan is to establish a free school of athletics under the supervision of the general Government, with headquarters at Washington and branch schools in large cities. Muidoon believes that athletic education should be compulsory, but as this is not in accordance with our free institutions, he has made provision in his bill for encouraging a love for athletics, providing for annual prizes to be awarded to the best athletes in a series of contests that will be in the nature of a revival of the Olympian games.

The bill provides for the appointment by the Fresident of an instructor general, who shall have power to appoint three assistants to be stationed at Washington. It also provides for the erection of a school at Washington, to cost not over $300,000, and to be complete in every detail, including a model gymnasium and a grand public nataorium. The instructor general is empowered to appoint instructors in other cities, and to make arrangements for the branch schools, which are to be patterned after the school at the national capital. It is estimated that an annual appropriation of not less than $125,000 will be required for the maintenance of the school. The instructor general is to receive $5,000 and his assistants $2,500 per year. Of course the willy Muldoon is a candidate for the position of instructor general.

The Royal Baking Powder Declared Superior to all others.

The fact that Royal Baking Powder is, in all respects, the best baking powder offered to the public has been established beyond question.

Prof. H. A. Mott, when employed by the U. S. Government to analyze the various baking powders of the market to determine which was the best and most economical, after an extended investigation reported in favor of the Royal, and it was adopted for government use.

Prof. Mott has continued his examinations of baking powders sold at the present day, and affirms it as his deliberate judgment, arrived at after most thorough research and a careful examination of the principal brands of the market, that the Royal is undoubtedly the purest and most reliable baking powder offered to the public. Prof. Mott, in his report, says:

"The Royal Baking Powder is absolutely pure, for I have so found it in many tests made both for that company and the U.S. Government,

"I will go still further and state that, because of the facilities that company have for obtaining perfectly pure cream of tartar, and for other reasons dependent upon the proper proportions of the same, and the method of its preparation, the Royal Baking Powder is undoubtedly the purest and most reliable baking powder offered to the public.

Presentation to Mr. Hoblitzelle.

Mr. Clarence L. Hoblitzelle, chief deputy in the Circuit Clerk's office, celebrated his silver wedding yesterday. The employes of the office prepared a pleasant surprise for the occasion, and last night a delegation called on Mr. Hoblitzelle at his residence, $200 Morgan, and presented him with a silver tea-set and card case. The presentation was made by Mr. Edmond P. Walsh, who, in a few choice words, expressed the feelings of his fellow clerks and congratulated Mr. and Mrs. Hoblitzelle on the twenty-fifth anniversary of their wedding. It was a genuine surprise to the chief deputy, who was deeply moved by the kind renembrance. The delegation, after receiving the thanks of Mr. and Mrs. Hoblitzelle, were invited to join in the family reunion by which the anniversary was celebrated, and a pleasant time was had.
